

What does Equality mean to me?

By Harry Cotton 6RW

Equality means people are equal.

Which means everyone should be treated the same regardless of gender, race or religion.

My favourite sport is football. It doesn't discriminate people on their gender, race or religion. As you can see from the photographs below there are football players who are black, white, women, men, Christians, Catholics and Muslims.

I looked in the English Dictionary and the definition of equality is

The state of having the same rights, opportunities or advantages as others

I am proud that at St Margaret's we treat each other as equal, we are fair and show each other respect and are compassionate to one another regardless of gender, race or religion. Our core values at St Margaret's include Respect, Equality, Co-operation, Compassion, Peace and Forgiveness. At St Margaret's everyone is valued.

I think we need to make sure that as a pupil at St Margaret's we should set an example not only in school but outside of school and treat everyone that we meet with equality and compassion to help make the world a better place. This will make sure that everyone is given equal opportunities and treated fairly.

God doesn't favour one person over another. God sees us all as equal and so should we. God created us as equal and we should respect that. We should always treat each other as we want to be treated ourselves.
